

Elementary ARTIST BOX Draw It

1. Use the second, small, white sheet of paper to outline a more realistic version of your sculpture. Or, if you'd like, follow along with this project!

Outline the most basic shape of the object. Then add a horizon line (a horizontal line behind the object).

2. Now, let's determine where the light will come from on this drawing. In this case, let's put a small sun on the upper right-hand side of your paper.

Find the part of the object that is opposite of the sun and begin making lines and shading the side of the object that is opposite the sun.

3. Continue the shading on the darker side, then begin lightening the shadows as you round the object toward the light. Erase any areas that got too dark. Smudge the shadows with your finger if you would like.

Make adjustments and you're done!

Elementary ARTIST BOX Paper Mache

1. Fill your cup with cold water and add a heaping scoop of paper mache (Art Paste) powder. Mix the powder into the water until the liquid is smooth or for up to two minutes. Wait fifteen minutes before using.

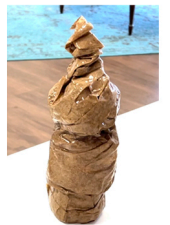

2. Stir the paste one more time and then dip the strips of paper (that came in your cup) into the paste. Dip the paper mache into your cup or pour the paste into the plastic bag that came in your box.

3. Remove excess paste from each paper strip by sliding the strip between your fingers so that there is only a thin layer of paste on the strip. Then, wrap the strips around the form that you made last week until it is completely covered.

4. Wipe your hands off with paper towels. Then, keep your hands low in the sink and wash them until clean.

5. Finish cleaning up your workspace. Then set your project in your box or on a small corner of clean plastic to dry.

1. It's time to paint your sculpture! You get to choose your colors and design, but the following steps will help if you want your project to turn out just like the one in the example.

Pick a color to paint the cone (or one part of the sculpture you made). Then, choose another color for other areas of your project based on what you think will look good and paint those sections.

2. Once the basic colors are on the cone, continue adding details to the project with accent colors, shapes, and lines in a way that looks good to you.

3. When finished, set this work of art aside to dry. But don't sell it yet :) we will use it next week for our final project!

4. If you want to challenge yourself, try blending colors to better customize your sculpture.

1. Use one of the small, white sheets of paper that came in your box to make an outline drawing of your project. This type of project is called a contour line drawing.

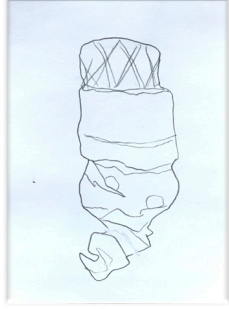

Your goal is to draw the outline exactly as you see it.

2. Next, add lines to help show the details of your sculpture.

3. Now it's time to add a little of your imagination to the drawing! Can you think of a unique way to design a fun picture out of the drawing of your sculpture?

In this example, we added a door to the cone and drew hills in the background, along with a path and candy along the way.

4. Try adding shadows to the drawing!
